Travel back in time 450 million years with Stewart Wilson, and other teacher volunteers, to the Middle Cambrian era, a time when trilobites swam the warm sea that covered the East Kootenay.

Each session will begin with an introduction to local geology, fossils and general information about trilobites, followed by an hour of soft-rock splitting as we hunt for trilobites. Each participant will be able to take their treasures home and will receive a fun paleontology activity book.
